

The Carriage for the first baby

It's always hardest to select the carriage for the first baby. We realize this, and in the Whitney Sleeper shown above we have a model which is sure to please both father and mother.

The long flexible springs, the reversing gear and the roomy construction appeal to a man's good judgment. The stylish appearance and fine corduroy upholstering always catch the mother's eye.

May we show this model and our many other new styles to you and your husband some day this week?

John Kingston of New Haven, Conn., who came to Barre to appear before the draft board, is passing several days with relatives on west hill.

Robert D. Smith, secretary of the National Association of Granite Industries, who came to Barre to confer with local manufacturers, returned to his home in Boston today.

C. A. Caron and son, Master Augustus, of Beckley court, returned this forenoon from Boston, where they have been spending the past several days on a business trip. While absent, Mr. Caron and son also visited for a few days with friends in Taunton, Mass.

Shortage of cars and the power to move them is the greatest hindrance to Barre granite industry and this is the condition everywhere. Yet we allow breweries to ship 60,729,500 barrels of beer, using 10,500,000 tons of freight space and power. Vote No. Close the saloon and save this transportation space and power to help in the war.—adv.

Another herald of balmy weather appeared this morning, when the chorus of whistles in the various manufacturing plants of the granite belt sounded at 7 o'clock instead of at 7:15 o'clock, as during the past month. Other signs of the much welcomed spring were evident yesterday, several citizens reporting that numerous crows were seen hovering around yesterday for the first time.

D. Allison McDonald, daughter of Mrs. Jessie McDonald of Windsor terrace, left last evening for Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., where she has been commissioned as second lieutenant of the Red Cross nurses corps. Miss McDonald is a graduate of the training school for nurses at Heaton hospital, Montpelier, and has a host of friends who wish her good luck and success.

Accompanied by Coach Noble, members of the Goddard seminary second-string basketball team left this noon for Randolph, where they are scheduled to play the Randolph team this evening. The players going on the trip were Sector, Slayton, Beattie, Jacobs, Tryon and Gartry.

The seminary team has been rapidly rounding into trim lately and since their defeat at Bethel recently has added two victories to its credit.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of the installing officer, the officers-elect of Barre, L. B. T., were not elevated to the chairs at the special meeting of the union last evening. Preparations had been made for a luncheon, however, as the truckmen held a regular meeting and voted to postpone the installation until next month, after which the gastronomic features planned by the entertainment committee were carried out.

Among the guests arriving at Hotel Barre last night and this morning were the following: E. L. Leach of Salem, Mass.; H. W. Cook of Concord, N. H.; C. J. Ferguson of Burlington, E. D. Lucknell of Scanton, Pa.; Robert D. Smith of Boston, H. W. Slocum of Burlington, E. L. Montague of Northampton, Mass.; Norman Whitney of Boston, R. P. Peckham of Elmira, N. Y.; C. D. O'Leary of St. Albans, A. A. Gates of Scanton, Pa.; M. E. Leach of Canaan, N. H.; A. D. Galantz of Harrisburg, Pa.; Ralph P. Shaw of Bethel, Paul McConnell of Mansfield, O.; T. H. Hegner of Burlington.

One of the most enjoyable gatherings of the winter in Eagle circles was the initiation ceremony carried out by the Barre aerie at its hall in the Worthen block last evening. As guests of the local fraternity, a number of members of the Montpelier aerie were present, and, all told, a company of nearly 200 lodge members witnessed the initiation of some 35 candidates. The degree work was in charge of a team consisting of Thomas McDonald, James Hastings, Paul Bianchi, E. J. Rullo, F. Rossi and Louis Sassi, with James Mackie serving as played. After the ceremony there was a program of informal toasts, singing and instrumental music. A luncheon was served before adjournment by a committee consisting of A. M. Cella, L. Sassi, E. J. Rullo, David McDonald and Antonio Broggi.

The class was one of the largest ever initiated by Barre aerie and represents a considerable acquisition to an organization already recognized as one of the strongest aeries in the Vermont jurisdiction.

Hardware dealers report an almost unprecedented demand for sugar pails and syrup cans and that fact is among the multiplying signs that farmers in this vicinity are looking forward to one of the busiest maple sugar seasons in years. A shortage of tin is ascribed as one of the reasons why sugar makers' receptacles are scarce and rather high, and the same reason goes for difficulties which some farmers have encountered in obtaining enough sap buckets. Many of them are resorting to the old fashioned wooden buckets, and as for containers, there are farmers who have a permanent market for their product who will use barrels for their syrup and tubs instead of cans for sugar. Forward looking sugar orchardists are taking time by the forelock in breaking roads through their maple woods, although no one seems to expect a run of sap for at least two weeks. During the recent warm spell a few trees were tapped and sap ran freely at times.

Who Will Claim Them?
Letters remaining unclaimed for at the Barre postoffice for the week ending Feb. 28 were:
Men—Joseph Boissonneault, Domenica Migel Coha.
Women—Della Barney, Mrs. Chas. Barr, Miss Julia Cooley.

Rev. Father M. S. O'Donnell, who has been assisting in special services at St. Monica's church, returned yesterday for his home in Randolph.

For lack of coal: Churches closed, schools jeopardized, children cold, manufacturers curtailed. For lack of grain: Households pinched, allies on short rations, armies endangered. Breweries still run. One pound of coal for every pint of beer made. Breweries are now destroying only 4,000,000 leaves of broad per day. Moral: Vote No this year.—adv.

Rabbit hunting, a diversion in which an ever increasing number of Barre hunters have followed in the past few months, came to an end yesterday, and for the next six weeks the sportsman who chases cotton tails in winter and speckled trout in warmer seasons must be content to hunt the fox and raccoon. The rabbit season has been unusually productive of good sport, according to the hunters, and not in many years have so many rabbit dogs been loose. Undoubtedly the rather prohibitive cost of meat has stimulated interest in rabbit hunting, and many a larger hand has been well supplied with rabbit meat ever since the season opened last September.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Reception to Lieutenant A. A. Cross a Very Enjoyable Affair.

A very pleasant social event was the reception given in Lynde hall last Tuesday evening to Lieut. A. A. Cross, M. D. on the eve of his departure for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. The affair was decidedly impromptu, arrangements being made in a very short space of time. A brief program was given, Winifred A. Cram acting as master of ceremonies. Vocal and instrumental music was a feature of the evening, several local musicians contributing their efforts to give this added pleasure. Dr. Cannon of Burlington, a classmate of Dr. Cross, was present and in the course of his reminiscences of college life at U. V. M., stated that the class in which they were graduated numbered 47, and of these two were deceased and 35 were now in the service of the United States. Other speakers were Rev. John Irons, Rev. G. W. Keeling and O. W. Martin. Light refreshments were served and a very pleasant evening was spent. Dr. Cross came to this town three years ago, and in this brief time has made many friends, both professionally and socially. He took the night train on Wednesday for his destination, where he was to report on Saturday.

While returning home from a call on a neighbor last week, Mrs. T. D. Poland fell and cut a gash in her forehead, which required surgical treatment. She was dazed by the fall and does not remember just how or where it happened, but it is thought it was near her home, as she was able to get to the house without aid. She is now feeling much better.

Henry Poole has received a letter from James R. B. McMillan, stating that he was convalescing from his recent serious illness at Globe, Ariz., and now was able to sit up a part of the time.

Now that the last mail of the day is received about 4 p. m., it does not seem necessary that the office be kept open so late, and until further notice it will close at 7 on the nights that the stores close at six, and at eight on other nights.

Mrs. J. J. Kanaly of Montpelier was in town the 27th, accompanied by her daughter, Margaret, now at home for a week from the state normal school at Fitchburg, Mass.

Did somebody forget in making up the warning for town meeting that there is a balance of over $200 remaining in the special school fund that cannot be used for any other purpose without the authority of the town?

The Agenda class of the M. E. Sunday school will meet with Mrs. Harry M. Ladd next Monday night, March 4, instead of the following week.
